AIM AND EQUIPMENT

ORIGIN AND AIM

LUTHER College was founded in the year 1861 by the Norwegian Evangelical Lutheran Synod of America. The College is supported by voluntary gifts from the congregations constituting that body, and is, accordingly, under the control of the Synod, which appoints the Board of Trustees and the Board of Visitors. The institution owes its origin to the growing demand for educated men who could preach the Word of Life to the rapidly increasing Norwegian population of this country.

The chief object of the College is, therefore, to teach the disciplines of liberal knowledge to young men who intend later to take up the study of theology; but the College also aims to afford the advantages of a liberal education to any youth desiring to avail himself of the same.

Believing that "the fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge," it regards mere mental training without Christian faith and love as possessing but a doubtful value. For this reason it desires, through its religious instruction and Christian influence, to reach as many as it can also of those who do not intend to serve the church directly as pastors or teachers, trusting that those whose education has been based on Christian principles, will, also in other vocations, both morally and intellectually, exert a beneficial influence among their countrymen and fellow-Christians.

LOCATION AND BUILDINGS

The College was temporarily located at Halfway Creek, Wis. In the year 1862 it was removed to Decorah, Winneshiek Co., Iowa, a city situated at the terminus of the B., C. R. & N. R. R. and at that of a branch of the C., M. & St. Paul R. R. The grounds embrace 32 acres about one mile distant from the center of the city, and constitute a fine natural park on the left bank of the Upper Iowa river. The Campus is a large piece of level ground, parts of which are adorned by tall shade-trees, chiefly oaks. The adjoining city, bluffs, and valleys afford scenery of rare beauty and interest.

The main building (170x52, four stories besides basement) was destroyed by fire May 19th, 1889. The new building, reared on the foundation of the old, and of the same dimensions, was dedicated and occupied on the 14th of October in the present academic year. It is a noble and imposing structure, beautifully situated on an eminence overlooking the city to the east, and the river valley to the west. The interior is likewise very attractive. Floors, wainscoting, doors, and casings are all of oil-finished Georgia pine, the rich and beautiful color of which imparts to the halls and rooms a bright and cheerful look. Every part of the building is heated and ventilated by a powerful steam apparatus of the most approved kind. The mains of the city water works have been extended to the College grounds, offering ample protection in case of fire, and affording all those priceless conveniences, so conducive to health and comfort, which a judicious use of a perfect system of water works yields. Every story but one has its lavatory, and the building has six bath-rooms furnished with hot and cold water. The furniture in class-rooms, library, reading-room, studies, and dormitories, is all of the best.

The building furnishes accommodations for about 130 students. Those in excess of that number have been provided for elsewhere, or have been permitted to find their own accommodations.

LIBRARY AND LABORATORY

The College Library, the former Mimer Library included, contains 6,137 bound volumes, besides pamphlets, papers, and other printed matter. Additions to the library of the best works in the various departments of study are being made from time to time as rapidly as the available resources will permit. The library receives an annuity of $200 from the Synod, besides the membership fees from the students. A classified catalogue of the books contained in the library is given into the hands of the students.

A reading-room has been provided, where books of reference in the various branches of study are accessible to all students. In the new building provision has been made for a more commodious reading-room, as also for greatly improved quarters for the general library, rendering it more directly serviceable to the students than was possible in the old building.

Provision has likewise been made for a larger laboratory, where students, under the guidance of the instructor, may carry on their own experiments.

THE COLLEGE GYMNASIUM

This structure is a substantial frame building, 75x42, pleasantly located to the north of the College building among the shade-trees of the campus. It was erected in 1885-86 and paid for by money principally raised by student effort. The necessary apparatus has been provided. Exercises in the gymnasium are obligatory on all students. A fee of one dollar will be collected from new students, and an annual fee of half a dollar from the others, which money will be used towards completing the apparatus and keeping the building in repair.

LEGACIES

Mr. Halvor O. Gjergjord, late of Stoughton, Wis., bequeathed to our College two-thirds of his estate, amounting to $5,476.56, besides a quarter section of land in Steele Co., Minn., to be controlled by the Board of Trustees, and the annual income thereof to be distributed among deserving students whose aim is to serve the church.

A similar bequest has been made by Mr. Martin Pedersen, of Glenwood, Iowa. The amount is $750.00.

STUDIES

LATIN.—As Luther College is pre-eminently a classical institution, Latin occupies a prominent place in its course of study. The subject is begun in the second year of the Preparatory Department and is continued to the end of the Collegiate Course. The aim is to give the student that mental discipline and develop in him that habit of linguistic precision which a methodical study of the Latin language with its copiousness of grammatical apparatus is so well calculated to insure; and further, through this means, to lead him to a just appreciation of literature, and, above all, to lay the foundation for that broad and liberal culture for which another ground-work of equal carrying power hitherto in vain has been sought. In the Preparatory Department the student is thoroughly drilled in the etymology of the language, and is brought so far in syntax as to be able to read ordinary Latin with a fair degree of ease. The text-books used are Voss' Latin Reader and Schreiner's Grammar. In the third year are read the following portions of Cornelius Nepos: Miltiades, Themistocles, Aristides, Cimon, Hannibal. In the College Department the following authors are read in selections or in extenso: Phædri Fabulæ; Cicero: Orationes in Catilinam; Cæsar: De Bello Gallico; Sallust: Catilina; Ovid: Metamorphoses; Tacitus: Germania; Vergil: Aneid; Livy, XXI or XXII; Horace: Select Odes and Satires, and Weisse's History of Roman Literature and Antiquities. Other authors or other portions of the above authors will be assigned for parallel reading. Written exercises are required in all classes.

GREEK.—This study is begun in the Freshman year and is likewise continued every working-day to the end of the course. During the first year White's First Lessons in Greek and Goodwin's Grammar are used as text-books. Thorough drill in forms is given; written translations are regularly required, and frequent use is made of the black-board. During the latter half of this year Xenophon's Anabasis is begun. In the Sophomore year are read the first two books of Xenophon's Anabasis and the first two books of Homer's Odyssey or Iliad together with the remainder of White's First Lessons. The Juniors read Homer's Odyssey, III-IV, Plato's Apology and Criton, and Herodotus, VII. In the Senior class are read the Philippics of Demosthenes, I-III, and Sophocles: Antigone.—In the Junior class Xenophon is read cursorily, and dictated exercises are translated into Greek. In the combined Senior and Junior classes, lectures are delivered on Greek Literature and Antiquities. Parts of the New Testament are also read.

GERMAN.—Instruction in this subject is begun in the the second term of the third preparatory year and is continued through the College Course. In all the classes there are regular written and oral translations into German in connection with the study of grammar. The text-books used are Lökke's Grammar and Lökke's German Composition. In the Senior-Junior classes the students are also required to write an original essay. In the Preparatory Department Knudsen's German Reader is finished. In the Freshman year is used Pauss and Lassen's German Reader, from which the Sophomore class also reads selections. The Sophomores read also Schiller's Wilhelm Tell and, as parallel reading, Richard Leander's Träumereien. In the Senior-Junior classes are read Lessing's Minna v. Barnhelm and Goethe's Egmont, and, as parallel reading, Wilhelm Jensen's Die braune Erica and Chamisso's Peter Schlemihl. In these two classes Kluge's Geschichte der deutschen National-Litteratur is used for the study of the German literature.

HEBREW.—This subject is taken up in the Senior year, and forms thus the last in that series of linguistic studies with which this College seeks to familiarize its students. The object of this course is largely to give the student a more special preparation for theological study, but also, more generally, to afford him a philological acquaintance with this primitive and, in many respects, unique language. It is believed that such an acquaintance is especially desirable to one who has already gained a more extended knowledge of some of the chief Indo-European tongues. In this course the student learns the etymology of the language, and translates from the original a few chapters in Genesis and one or more of the Psalms.

ENGLISH.—English, as a distinct study, is provided for in all classes, besides its being used as a medium of instruction in a large proportion of the studies. In the Preparatory Department the student is trained especially in orthoepy, spelling, dictation, and grammar. Readers used in the Preparatory Department are; first year: Monroe's Fourth; second year, Appleton's Fourth; third year, Swinton's Seven American Classics; the last was introduced in this class during the present academic year. Frequent exercises in declamation and in oral and written translations into English are employed. Hitherto Swinton's New English Grammar was used in all these classes. During the present year Meiklejohn's English Grammar has been introduced in the first year's class. It is believed that an average student who completes the preparatory course in English will be able to use the language, both in speech and writing, with a fair degree of ease and precision. In the Freshman year are read Swinton's Seven British and Seven American Classics, in the Sophomore year Shakespeare's Julius Cæsar, Chaucer's Prologue to the Canterbury Tales, and the Clerk's Tale, in the Senior-Junior classes Shakespeare's Hamlet, Milton's Paradise Lost, and selections from English Classics. In all college classes essays are written. In the Freshman and Sophomore classes Rhetoric is studied in addition to the reading, and in the Senior-Junior classes a two year's course in the History of English Literature is given. Authors or selections from authors are assigned for parallel reading.

NORWEGIAN.—This subject receives attention not only with a view to the special work which the College seeks to perform, but also by reason of its own educational merits. The Norwegian is an important branch of the Teutonic family of languages and, as such, possesses, especially in its close relationship to the Old Norse, a permanent historic-linguistic interest. Besides this it opens the way to a literature, which, especially on its modern side, is recognized as occupying a high rank. It is also believed, as a practical question, that so long as the Norwegians of this country do well in at all retaining their mother tongue, they do well in learning to use it correctly. In the Preparatory Department the aim is to familiarize the student with the grammar and enable him to read and write the language with correctness. To this end frequent oral and written exercises are required. In the College Department a history of the literature is read, with selections from authors. Prominent works of authors like Wergeland, Holberg, Björnson, Ibsen, and others, are read complete, and lectures on them are delivered by the professor in charge. Besides writing essays, each student of the three upper classes also furnishes one lecture during the year.

OLD NORSE.—A course in Old Norse has this year been given in the combined Senior and Junior classes, Nygaard's Reader and Grammar being used.

HISTORY.—History is taught in all classes of the College proper, and also in the second and third year of the Preparatory Course. Our aim is to acquaint the student, almost from the very beginning of his course, with the leading events and ideas of the world's past, being fully convinced that such a study possesses an important training as well as culture value. The Spring term of the second preparatory year is devoted to a brief general history, Eriksen's "En liden Verdenshistorie" being used as text-book. In the following year is taken up the History of the United States (Johnston's), covering the colonial as well as the national period. Lectures on Civil Government are given in connection with this course. In the Freshman class a more extended course in general history is begun, which course is continued to the close of the Junior year. This course is devoted more especially to the classical period and to Mediæval and Modern Europe. In the Senior-Junior classes a course is given in the History of England, extending from the Roman period down to recent times. Topics are at intervals assigned the students to read up in the library and report on in class, the object being partly to supplement the text-book, but more especially to accustom the students to critical and independent work.

A course in Scandinavian history (Nordens Historie) is this year given in the Senior class. Also a brief course in the History of Education.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.—In keeping with the aim and spirit of the institution, religious instruction is given in every class throughout both departments. During the first two preparatory years Pontoppidan's Explanation of Luther's Catechism is carefully reviewed. During the three preparatory years a course is given in Bible readings, special stress being laid on the historical element. In the third year is read Luther's Catechism and the Gospel according to St. Luke in English. In the Sophomore and Freshman classes combined is read Dietrich's Explanation of Luther's Catechism. In the Senior-Junior classes are given, in alternate years, courses in the critical study of the Augsburg Confession and the Greek Testament.

MATHEMATICS is begun in the first preparatory class and continued to the end of the Sophomore year. In the Preparatory Department Arithmetic and Algebra are completed and Plane Geometry is begun, the text-books used being The New Arithmetic and Wentworth's Algebra and Geometry. In the College Department are read Plane and Solid Geometry, with Wentworth's Geometry as text-book.

THE SCIENCES.—Considerable progress has of late years been made toward giving the Sciences their proper place in the Preparatory Course. Steps have also been taken towards laying out a course in the Sciences in the College Department. With the equipment now provided, to which additions will be made from time to time, and with the better accommodations provided in the new building, it is believed that superior facilities are offered for the study of the Sciences.

Physiology and Zoology are taught in the Spring term of the Preparatory Course. A course in Physics is given in the Winter and Spring terms of the third year. Chemistry will be transferred to the Freshman year. Physical Geography, mentioned below, may properly be classified under this head.

GEOGRAPHY.—Political Geography is taught during the Fall and Winter terms of the first year of the Preparatory Course. Students are practiced in map drawing, and are encouraged to use the Gazetteer and other reference books. Incidental topics are frequently taken up for discussion. In the second year a course is given in Physical Geography. Guyot's text-books have hitherto been used.

PENMANSHIP.—Instruction in this branch is provided for in the first two terms of the first preparatory year. The aim is not so much to make expert penmen as to inculcate the true principles of the art, and thus set the student on the right way towards the acquiring of a legible and easy handwriting.

VOCAL MUSIC is taught in both departments. The text-books used in the Preparatory Department are Emerson and Brown's Song Readers, Nos. 1 and 2; in the College Department Emersons and Brown's Song Reader, No. 2, and Concone's 50 Lessons, op. 9.

GENERAL INFORMATION

TERMS OF ADMISSION

All applications for admission to any class of the Preparatory Department should be sent to the Principal of that department. Applications for admission to a collegiate class are to be sent to the President.

Candidates for an advanced class must pass a satisfactory examination in all studies required to enter that class, or in lieu thereof, present a certificate showing that an equivalent amount of work has been performed elsewhere.

For admission to the Preparatory Department the following attainments are required: Facility in reading Norwegian and English; a legible handwriting; in Arithmetic: Notation and Numeration, Addition, Subtraction, Multiplication, Division, and Common Fractions; Luther's Catechism, Pontoppidan's Udtog, and a brief Bible History.

Satisfactory testimonials of good moral character must be presented, and those coming from other institutions are required to bring certificates of honorable dismissal.

GENERAL REGULATIONS

The academic year opens the first Thursday in September and closes the third Wednesday in June.

Entrance examinations for those who seek advanced standing are held on the two days preceding the opening of the school-year.

Strict observance of study hours and punctual attendance on all prescribed exercises are required.

Students regularly attend devotional exercises and public worship.

All students' societies and organizations must have the approval of the President.

Such other rules will be announced as are necessary for the preservation of good order. .

TERM DIVISION

The school-year is divided into three terms, which arrangement prevails in both departments. But unless indicated elsewhere, all courses are continuous throughout the year. No effort is made to unduly compress a study in order to make it fit into the limits of a term. But all studies in the Preparatory Department that can be made to conform to such limits are completed, either in their entirety or in one of their larger divisions, at the close of a term.

The preparatory course has been re-arranged in such a manner as to make it better serve the purpose for which the term division was introduced. To make the work of the students more effective, and to concentrate their efforts, the number of studies to be carried at one time has been reduced. A plan of studies has been arranged, which the average student will find it to his advantage to follow; but students who wish to select their branches will be permitted to do so, with the understanding, however, that, in order to finish the preparatory course, all prescribed studies must be completed. On condition of taking a certain amount of work, the student may choose such studies in any of the preparatory classes as he is qualified to pursue. Special classes in any study will be formed whenever a sufficient number of students shall apply. In this manner it is hoped that the interests of irregular and temporary students, as well as of students with special attainments at entrance, will be better subserved.

EXPENSES

Every student who rooms and boards at the College pays annually on his arrival $10.00. Of this money $8.00 are used for minor repairs of the buildings, for renewal of the furniture originally supplied by the Synod, and for other incidental expenses; the remaining $2.00 go to the College Physician, who in case of sickness will give the students medical aid without further charge.

Students who room and board elsewhere pay the $8.00 mentioned above, but may be exempted from the physician's fee.

Students who board and room at the College pay for board and fuel $62.00 a year, distributed as follows: Fall term $18.00. Winter term $26.00, Spring term $18.00. The board is good and wholesome. Its cost to each student, deducting the actual cost of fuel, is about $1.35 per week. Owing to the greater expenses incurred on account of the better accommodations and service offered, the charge for board and fuel will very probably be slightly advanced from the beginning of the next academic year.

By resolution of the Synod, passed in 1889, the tuition for all classes of the Preparatory Department was fixed at $20.00 a year. In all classes of the College Department tuition is free.

A gymnasium fee of one dollar will be charged students on entrance, other students an annual fee of fifty cents.

An annual fee of one dollar for membership in the College Library is obligatory on all students except those in the first and second year of the Preparatory Department.

The annual payments to the College, under the new arrangement, will therefore be as follows:

Preparatory Department:

First two classes	-	-	-	$92.00
Third class, including library fee	-	-	-	$93.00

College Department:

All classes	-	-	-	$73.00
-------------	---	---	---	---------

besides the gymnasium fee.

All College dues are payable in advance at the beginning of each term, or of each half-term. No allowance is made in tuition and contingent money for less time than half a term.

We would call attention to the fact that were it not for the liberal contributions of the congregations of the Synod, the accommodations offered could by no means be furnished to the students at the above rates.

BENEFICIARY AID

Pecuniary contributions are regularly received from persons and congregations who are interested in the work of the College. These moneys are bestowed upon students whom the Faculty deem worthy of help and who desire to educate themselves for work in the holy ministry or in the parochial schools.

GRADUATION THEMES

A graduation theme is required of every student. This must be handed to the professor in charge of the study to which it appertains on or before May 1st. These themes may all be presented at commencement, or a selection may be made, at the option of the Faculty.

DEGREES

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred upon those students who have completed the regular course.

The degree of Master of Arts will, on application, be conferred upon graduates of three years' standing who, by an acceptable thesis on a theme approved by the Faculty, shall give evidence of creditable progress in a field of study or studies kindred to those pursued at this College.

LITERARY SOCIETIES

The different literary societies afford good opportunities for improvement in reading, writing, and speaking the Norwegian as well as the English language.

The "Addison" literary society was organized in 1879. Its regular weekly meetings are devoted to debates, original composition, select reading, and criticism.

The "Irving" literary society was organized in 1884.

The "Hamill" literary society has been organized during the present school-year. Its chief aim is elocutionary training. A contest will take place towards the close of the year, and a prize will be awarded to the best performer.

The "Students' Union" holds exercises in the College Chapel every five weeks. Members of the different literary and musical associations take part in the exercises, making them as instructive and attractive as possible.

"Muspelheim" is a reading-room, where members have access to the best periodicals and newspapers of the day.

MUSICAL SOCIETIES

Two societies for the cultivation of instrumental music have been organized by the students: a brass band of seventeen, and a string band of fourteen instruments. A musical library, always in receipt of the latest compositions, was founded in 1883.

"COLLEGE CHIPS"

has appeared in monthly issues of 16 pages in paper covers since 1883. It is under the editorial charge of a board appointed by the students. A Norwegian department has been added. The subscription fee remains the same as formerly, 50 cents a year in advance.

LUTHER COLLEGE PHALANX

A company has been organized for the purpose of training the students in military tactics. The College Armory contains 50 stand of arms with accoutrements.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The Luther College Alumni Association held its first meeting in June 1880. The aim of the association is to preserve a spirit of harmony among the graduates of this institution, and to unite them in fraternal work for the best interest of their Alma Mater. Its meetings are held annually on the day after commencement.

COURSES OF LECTURES

Public lectures have been delivered during the year under the auspices of the College. Two were by Rev. A. K. Sagen, of La Crosse, Wis., on the subjects: Christ, an Historical Person, and The Authenticity of the Gospels; and two by Rev. L. Carlson, of Douglas Co., Minn., on Home Mission in America and Australia and Travels in Australia and the Hawaiian Islands. During the Spring term courses of lectures will be delivered on Common and Constitutional Law and Hellenic Archæology and Architecture, one hour a week having been set apart for that purpose.

CORRESPONDENCE

in regard to all matters that concern the College in general is to be addressed to the President, Rev. Laur. Larson, Luther College, Decorah, Iowa. Correspondence regarding matters that pertain exclusively to the Preparatory Department is to be sent to Mr. H. W. Sheel, Decorah, Iowa.
